

Anne Schroeder

Anne Schroeder is one of the FCEP Program coordinators, and along with Dr. Dena Hurst, works through the Florida Institute of Government at the Florida State University. She began planning the FCEP Program with FSASE in 2006 following a need expressed in the Association's 2005 strategic plan.

Previously, Anne served as director for the local Florida Institute of Government at Edison Community College, now at FGCU, in the early 80s. In 1984, Anne began her consulting and training practice, Schroeder Management Consultants, and continues to work with public and private sector clients around the state and the country. She is certified through Clemson University as a bullying prevention consultant and trainer and has provided bullying prevention interventions and training for a number of Florida municipalities and counties as well as numerous Florida public schools.

Anne is especially proud to be graduate of the SAK Comedy Lab in Orlando having taken all four levels and has also studied with David Razowsky, former artistic director of Second City in Chicago.

Anne's clients have included NASA, Ryder Systems, Coca Cola, American Lung Association, Jackson Memorial Hospital, The Salvation Army, and Florida Gulf Coast University. She earned a master's degree from The Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, MD, and in addition has a Certificate in Advanced Carpentry. She and her husband Ed personally, hammer and nail, built their first home in North Fort Myers, and she is a proud Florida native.

I have more than 25 years' experience guiding public service leaders. My expertise is in capacity building, strategy, process analysis and improvement, and individual coaching. I have developed and delivered customized leadership programs, including leadership certification programs, to international, state and local governments and NGOs in Florida, nationally, and internationally.

I also teach applied philosophy courses, including philosophy of technology, political philosophy, ethics, and critical thinking. I am a certified philosophical practitioner and am associate editor for the American Philosophical Practitioners Association journal, Philosophical Practice.

I have contributed to several philosophy and pop culture books including, Philosophy and Psych, Philosophy and Supernatural, Philosophy and Jim Henson, and The Ultimate Star Trek and Philosophy.

I have a bachelor's degree in Economics from Stetson University and a master's degree and doctorate in Philosophy from Florida State University.

I am an avid Taoist Tai Chi® practitioner and instructor. I also enjoy traveling, hiking, and kayaking...though I'm equally content lying in a hammock reading a good book.
